

Blog Links In Facebook

10 OBSURE PLACES TO DROP THEM WITHOUT GETTING BANNED

If you are looking to start your own online affiliate business click here

Facebook is the largest social network on the planet so getting traffic from it back to your blog is a must. In this article I show you 10 places to drop your blog links in Facebook that will get you more traffic.

Dropping Blog Links In Facebook

Firstly let's clear up the myth that social media links are no good as they are treated as no follow links and therefore a pointless exercise.

True they are no follow but give your blog a great boost with social signals which does help, plus if someone clicks on your blog links in Facebook you will get MORE traffic and hey we all want that don't we ?

Ok so let's show you just where to place these links, I am sure there's a few places you will not have thought of. The last one is a real gem!

The first one we will cover is one you will know and probably already be doing, well I trust you are doing it. It's sharing your blog posts and pages direct to Facebook this of course adds the link.

Now let's get on with less obvious ones...

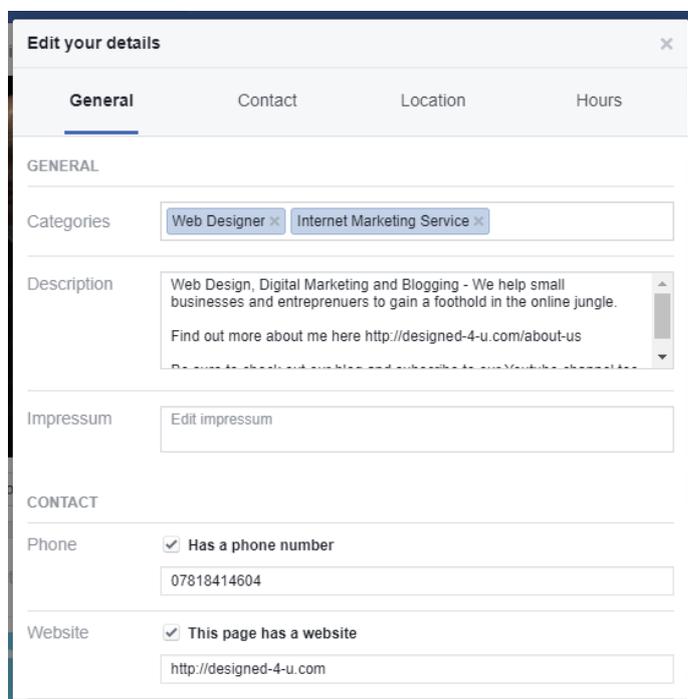

People often forget that your profile images are clickable. If you are smart you can add a description which includes links back to your blog. This can be done for both your Facebook page and profile, but I tend to keep my profile as free as I can and direct people to my page.

The page header can also be used for blog links in Facebook in exactly the same way. Don't forget you can also do the same if you have a Facebook group

Even if you don't use your Facebook profile for business you can still add your website on your about page contact information under website. They do allow more than one so if used well you could have a link to a landing page offer too.

On your profile and pages you have a description or general info section. Make sure you have a good description about what you do and add a link back to your blog or website.

On your profile and pages you have a description or general info section. Make sure you have a good description about what you do and add a link back to your blog or website.

Having this triggers something really cool but more on that later...

You can also create an event on your Facebook page. There is nothing to stop you doing this for every new blog post you do. Place your link in the description that will then direct people back to your blog

One of the great things about events is that you have the option to share, invite people and share in messenger and news feeds.

Note :- Only share on news feeds of people you know or are in the article. You don't want to be classed as spamming as this will do more harm than good.

This is a great tip and one I came across recently when reading a blog post on Matthew Woodward's blog (well worth a visit too) but not till you have read the rest of this post.

Anyway back to this article ... in this next place you can drop numerous links and it be seen by people visiting your Facebook page. Where is it, it's a pinned post !

Just create a normal post. I have created a welcome post, then clicked the three dots in the top right hand corner. The drop down menu gives you the option to pin the the top. Done!

This can also be used in a group too.

PINNED POST

 Martin Burt Admin · 33 mins

PLEASE READ :-
Welcome to our FB group please read the description on the right hand side BEFORE posting...
First some handy links for you....

Free resources to build your own Marketing Funnels and Webpages
<http://designed-4-u.com/resources/>

How to get traffic to a bran new blog <http://designed-4-u.com/get-traffic-brand-new-blog/>

Step By Step Blueprint To Grow Your Email List <http://designed-4-u.com/step-step-blueprint-grow-email-list/>

Creating Eye Catching Videos For Your Website <http://designed-4-u.com/creating-eye-catching-videos-for-y.../>

The Easiest Way To Build Using Wordpress <http://designed-4-u.com/thrive->

Want To Start Your Own Online Affiliate Business?

Head to My #1 Recommendation

You will learn how to build your successful online business

It's free to Join, NO Credit Card Required.

Get Started Now

Okay two to go! The last one, you make just freak out over if you don't know about it, I did the first time I came across it.

This one you will know about, but are you doing it !

It's your Facebook page button under your header. Did you know you can direct people back to your blog or website using this button. Hoover over the button and then choose edit, you can then choose from various buttons. If you wish you can always create a header that prompts visitors to click through.

Right we have come to our final place to drop your blog link in Facebook, unless of course you know differently.

It's in your posts. huh ! I hear you cry I know that.

Now bare with me! I know you can share and paste your blog link into your posts, but did you know this...

When adding your website, to your page and or profile info, you trigger this. When you then write the blog name including the .com or whatever ending you have Facebook will automatically hyperlink link it. How cool is that !

Ok let me just show you. My website is NewbieAffiliateMarketer.com so just write it exactly as you would without the www or https://. This works really well as it doesn't look like a normal link on Facebook. The best bit is it's Facebook that are linking it, all you are doing is writing it.

CHECKLIST

Done	Task Description
<input type="checkbox"/>	Share blogs direct from your blog to Facebook profile, page or group
<input type="checkbox"/>	Add link in the description on your Profile and page header
<input type="checkbox"/>	Add link in the description on your Profile and page profile picture
<input type="checkbox"/>	Add your website to your profile about information
<input type="checkbox"/>	Add a link to your page header button
<input type="checkbox"/>	Description in group header
<input type="checkbox"/>	Add a link to your groups description, add in first two lines
<input type="checkbox"/>	Add your website link into your page info section
<input type="checkbox"/>	Pinned post add links to a post then pin it to the top of your page.
<input type="checkbox"/>	Add your website in written format when posting a status

Want To Start Your Own Online Affiliate Business?

Head to My #1 Recommendation

You will learn how to build your successful online business

It's free to Join, NO Credit Card Required.

Get Started Now